Welcome to the start of another holiday season and what better way to celebrate than attending the Holiday Dinner Dance on December 4th. This event always has good food, great wine, great company, and dancing. It is a chance to celebrate the holiday season with many OCWS friends and it is a great opportunity for donating to Toys for Tots. Let's hear it for those firefighters who visit annually to collect the donated toys!

will be Ravenswood Winery on January 22. Joel Peterson, a long time supporter of OCWS and commercial wine competition judge on the Zinfandel panel for many years, will be presenting. Joel's discussions are always humorous and provide interesting insight into many great wines. Please read Rich's article in this newsletter for additional information.

History of the Orange County Wine Society

As the Orange County Wine Society celebrates its 40th Anniversary, this 2015-2016 year's edition of The Wine Press will feature the Wine Society's history. About ten years ago, long time member and Past President, Larry Graham, took the initiative to gather and author the information from the organization's members. We are in the process of getting a committee together that will work on gathering and updating the history of the last decade. If you are interested in sharing memories or serving on this committee, please contact Michelle Philo at winepress@ocws.org.

~ The First Wine Competitions ~

In 1977, the first annual Orange County Fair Commercial Wine Competition was held on July 10 at the South Coast Plaza Hotel in Costa Mesa. A total of 92 wines were entered representing only two popular varietals - Chenin Blanc and Gamay Beaujolais. Brant Horton invited the wineries to submit their wines or planned to purchase them off the shelf of local retail outlets and

January Winery Program: Ravenswood Winery

Friday, January 22, 2016 @ 6:15 pm
Wyndham Hotel
3350 Avenue of the Arts
Costa Mesa, CA

Our January winery program starts with "No Wimpy Wines" from Ravenswood. Joel Peterson, affectionately known as the "Godfather of Zin", is both an articulate spokesman and a gutsy trendsetter who helped make Zinfandel the phenomenon that it is today.

Ravenswood wines are classified Single Vineyard Designates, County Series and Vintners Blend. The "Single Vineyard Designates" are as unique as the individual vineyards and the grapes are from old, low-yielding vines. The "County Series" come from the best growing areas in Sonoma, Napa and San Joaquin Counties. "Vintners Blends" are crafted from vineyards throughout California.

Ravenswood wines are elegantly rustic and robust, unadulterated, unapologetic, unfussy and unwimpy!

Attendees can park in the garage and either get their ticket validated at OCWS check-in or pay $10 for valet parking. Dinner begins at 6:45 pm with the meeting following at 7:30 pm.

The cost is $43 for members, $48 for guests, or $50 for a separate "heart healthy" meal option. The January heart healthy meal selection will be an oven roasted teriyaki salmon, served with red and white quinoa and garlic broccoli.

Sign up is available on the website or use the sign-up sheet in this newsletter.

Members may bring their own wine to enjoy and share during the buffet dinner. We ask that you remove your bottle from the table during the tasting.

Note: Any cancellations must be made no later than Monday, January 18 to receive a refund.

February Winery Program: Navarro Vineyards

Friday, February 5, 2016 @ 6:15 pm

Wyndham Hotel

3350 Avenue of the Arts

Costa Mesa, CA

Navarro Vineyards are known for their Alsatian-style Gewürztraminer, along with old-vine Zinfandel, estate-grown Anderson Valley Pinot Noir, Chardonnay, Pinot Gris, Riesling and sweet Muscat. Jim Klein, who has been the master winemaker at Navarro since 1992, will be presenting the wines this evening.

In addition to the dry Alsatian-style Gewürztraminer and Riesling, Navarro grows lots of Pinot Noir. Their vineyard has nine different sites dedicated to Pinot Noir with many different clones, rootstocks and trellis systems. Because of the diversity of fruit from this vineyard, Jim ferments and ages as many as 37 different lots of their estate-grown Pinots.

Three Pinot Noirs are produced: a Mendocino blend, a Méthode à l'Ancienne Anderson Valley Pinot Noir (from Navarro's estate fruit and a small percentage of grapes from other growers in the Anderson Valley), and a Deep End Blend Anderson Valley Pinot Noir (a reserve made exclusively from higher elevated sites and the most age worthy).

Attendees can park in the parking structure and either get their ticket validated at OCWS check-in or pay $10 for valet. Dinner begins at 6:45 pm with the meeting following at 7:30 pm.

The cost is $43 for members, $48 for guests, or $50 for a separate "heart healthy" option. For February, the selection will be a grilled herbed chicken breast with cherry tomato relish and Chimichurri sauce, served with steamed brown rice and sautéed green beans. Sign up on the website or use the sign-up sheet in this newsletter.

Members may bring their own wine to enjoy and share during the buffet dinner. We ask that you remove your bottle from the table during the tasting.

Note: Any cancellations must be made no later than Monday, February 1 to receive a refund.

Post Crush Wrap Up

The winemakers are finally catching our breath as the 2015 Crush Season comes to an end. Thank you to Rich McCormick and Bill Forsch for their above and beyond leadership in getting top quality grapes for the group from Soltera Winery in Leucadia, and Lucas and Lewellyn Winery in Solvang. The varietals included Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Petite Sirah, Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, and a few others. Bill and Noel personally made SIX trips up to Solvang, returning 12, 1,000 pound bins of grapes to the members! Thank you Rich and Bill!

The Art of Fining

In November, seven of our winemakers attended a class on "fining". The class was hosted by Enartis Vinquiry and held at Wilson Creek Winery in Temecula. Fining is process in winemaking where additives are added to clarify and adjust wines, and is considered gentler on the wine than filtering. The class was very informative, and they will be sharing the information with the rest of the Winemakers' Group.

Winemakers' Group Quarterly Potluck

Our next Winemakers' Quarterly Meeting and Wine Tasting will be on February 6, 2016 at the home of Barry and Adele Thomas in Anaheim Hills. As with all Winemakers' Group events, this is open to all OCWS members. We hope to see a lot of new faces in February, which is a chance for you all to learn about our fabulous homemade wines!

We will be working on our 2016 event calendar in January. Watch for our announcements of new events in the upcoming months, including visits to wineries and winemaking classes.

If you would like to attend our events or learn more about winemaking, please contact Kevin Donnelly at 714.457.7229 or emailkj_d@hotmail.com.

Call for Volunteers to Plan Wine Trip

It is time to start planning our next fabulous 5-Star trip to wine country. We need to get a committee organized to start the planning process. I am looking for a few volunteers who would be interested to organize this trip.

The tasks include:

- Select the trip location;
- Considering Napa, Sonoma, or Paso Robles areas among others;
- Contact wineries to set up tastings;
- Set up special events for our members;
- Organize the trip agenda;
- Arrange the hotel accommodations;
- Organize the transportation, both air and ground; and
- Arrange all breakfast, lunch and dinner meals;

Past Wine Society members who have been on our trips consider them in the 5-Star category. We provide everything on our trips, including all tastings, meals, taxes, gratuities, and hotel and transportations expenses. No extra expenses are required.

It takes considerable planning to organize one of our trips. You do not have to be a trip expert, but it helps if you know winery areas and great wineries to visit, and have the time to contact wineries.

If you have the time and are willing to take on this exciting project, contact Rich Skoczylas at rich@ocws.org.

confirmed their availability in the Orange County marketplace. Initially, only two varietals were selected due to the limited funds available to potentially purchase wines from the local market. Also, unlike other competitions, no entry fees were charged and wines were judged in three price categories - inexpensive, moderate, and premium. Wines were also separated into dry and off-dry categories. Jerry Mead invited 18 vintners, winery principals, or winemakers as judges. Many of the first judges included such recognizable names as Richard Arrowood, Albert Cribari, Steve Mirassou, Ray Krause, Jerry Lohr, John Parducci, Phyllis Pedrizzetti, Don Sebastiani, and Rodney Strong. The tasting was done "blind" and scoring was done using the industry-wide Davis 20-Point System.

A Wine Steering Committee was appointed by the Orange County Fair to review the judges' scores and award gold, silver, or bronze ribbons. The first Wine Steering Committee included Brant Horton and Jerry Mead and seven others including Jane (McGrath) Goodnight as a Commercial Wine Representative, Chuck Hanson as a Wine Retailer, and Jeri Wilson as a Restaurant Writer.

A parallel Homewine Competition was also held on June 26, 1977, at the Orange County Fairgrounds. Jim Graver volunteered to chair the first Homewine Competition with the help of Brant Horton and the support of members serving as stewards. There were 36 entries in the first competition, mostly from the members, and it was followed by a potluck lunch and tasting of the entries. The Homewine Competitions were held for years in the former Memorial Gardens Building and continue today at The Courtyard on the Fairgrounds. During the OC Fair, a booth was built and staffed by home wine members to display winners from both competitions and to educate the public with information about how home wines are made. As a result, several new members joined the OCWS and the membership gradually grew to become more wine enthusiasts than home winemakers.

Subsequent Commercial Wine Competitions continued to grow in both number of entries and varietals judged. In 1980, the entries grew to 733 and 13 different varietals were judged including Sparkling Wine and Zinfandel for the first time. The number of judges grew from 24 to 36 adding such notables as Ken Brown, Charles Crawford, Did you Know?

In the early days, the OCWS office was not located on the OC Fairgrounds. The organization maintained a post office box in Orange, California.

Bill Jekel, Tim Mondavi, Myron Nightingale, and Nils Venge.

During the early 1980s, the Orange County Wine Society continued to grow and began to offer new programs to the public, both with grand tastings and a wine booth at the Orange County Fair. The Wine Society membership grew to a few hundred members and the Board of Directors expanded from 7 to 9 members. The Commercial Wine Competition doubled entries and the varietals judged grew from 12 to over 55 in order to include all varietals and styles of wine made in California.

~ The First Newsletter ~

In April 1981, the OCWS published its first newsletter entitled the "Free Run" to inform its membership about meetings, activities, goals, and accomplishments of the Society. This first issue included a history of the Wine Society, completed actions by the Board of Directors, a Treasurer's report, plans for the Commercial and Homewine Competitions, and planned events during June and July. Also discussed was the award of two $500 scholarships to California State University at Fresno. The newsletter also reported on two winery tasting programs that included Joe and Alice Heitz of Heitz Cellars and Mike Grgich of Grgich Hills. Another issue of the Free Run was published in October 1981. That newsletter continued documenting the history of the OCWS and highlighted the year's successes with both the Commercial and Homewine Competitions and the Summer Wine Extravaganza.

~ The First Grand Tastings ~

Two grand tastings were held for the first time by the Society; the Spring Wine Extraordinaire and the Summer Wine Extravaganza. The events were both held at the Marriot Hotel in Anaheim. The Extraordinaire was designed to introduce the public to small wineries which at the time was set at less than 10,000 cases produced annually. Thirty-seven wineries were invited to pour their wines and attendance was limited to 300 persons. Additionally, suppliers of gourmet foods were invited to complement the wines. Chris Cunningham was chair of this first event and solicited numerous wineries to support the Extraordinaire and Classic. The Summer Wine Extravaganza was held during the Commercial Wine Competition in June. Over 100 wineries participated in this first grand tasting of wines that were also entered into the Competition. Jerry Mead served as Director of this event while also serving as Chairman of the Panel of Judges. Subsequent events approached 2,000 attendees from the general public. The Summer Wine Extravaganza was later renamed the Wine Classic and was held after the Competition had been completed.

~ The Courtyard is Born ~

For the first time in 1981, at the annual ten-day Orange County Fair, the Wine Society sponsored both a wine exhibit and wine booth called the "Wine Garden." Dick Bird built the wine exhibit to display the winning wines from the Commercial Wine Competition. Following his untimely death in 1981, Charley and Vivien Owen assumed the responsibility of assembling and setting up the annual display. Wine Society members staffed both the wine exhibit and the Wine Garden. Tastes of wines were served in the Wine Garden that was located outside of what was the Fine Arts Building during the OC Fair. This Wine Garden facility was eventually abandoned and a new serving area and cellar was built at The Courtyard on the OC Fairgrounds.

~ Commercial Competition Doubles in Entries ~

The three-day Orange County Fair Commercial Wine Competition grew during the early years from 1,130 entries in 1981 to 2,590 entries in 1985 with over 50 varietals and styles. The host hotel venue moved several times starting with the Anaheim Marriott, then Griswold's Inn, followed for two years at the Balboa Bay Club, and finally the Disneyland Hotel. In 1983, the Commercial Competition was intentionally expanded to include any varietal or style of wine made from California grapes and in 1984 the "Four-Star Gold" notation was added to the Award Book to recognize those wines receiving a gold medal recommendation from four judges. The number of judges grew from 36 in 1981 to 70 in 1985 and included such notables as Jim Concannon, Bill Jekel, Myron Nightingale, Brother Timothy, Carolyn Wente, and Warren Winiarski. New participants included Fred Brander, Mitch Cosentino, John Daume, Joseph Franzia, Richard Longoria, and Jim Prager.

The Orange County Fair's Wine Steering Committee continued during this period with Jerry Mead serving as Chair and additional panel members included Chuck Hanson, Jane (McGrath) Goodnight, and Jerry Wilson. Chris Cunningham joined the Steering Committee as a Wine Retailer. The Homewine Competitions continued to flourish during these formative years and were typically held at the OC Fairgrounds in June prior to the start of the fair.

~ The Wine Society Grows in the 1980s ~

During the mid to late 1980s, the Orange County Wine Society continued to grow and began to offer new types of events to its members in addition to the public grand tastings in the spring and summer. The Wine Society membership grew to over 500 members and the Board of Directors stabilized at nine members with each director serving three-year terms. Additionally, multiple wine booths and displays were built and staffed at the Wine Garden and Flower and Garden Building during the Orange County Fair. The Commercial Wine Competition entries averaged 2,500 and about 50 different varietals and styles of wine were judged each year.

~ OCWS Office Finds a New Home ~

The OCWS office was permanently relocated to the OC Fairgrounds on March 1, 1986. During 1988, the OCWS Office started accepting credit cards and John Goodnight was instrumental in converting our "cigar box" paper accounting system to a new computerized accounting program for the OCWS.

~ Free Run becomes The Wine Press ~

In April 1986, the OCWS published its second volume of the newsletter titled Free Run to inform its membership on the meetings, activities, and accomplishments of the Society. It was published by Jane Goodnight and edited by Ronnie Johnson. This issue described the 10th Anniversary of the OCWS and highlighted plans for the Orange County Fair exhibit in the Flower and Garden Building. Also featured were plans for the Commercial and Home-

In Memory of Rich McCormick

Rich McCormick has been an active member of OCWS since 2003. In the Winemaker's Group, Rich served as the Chief Judge of the Homewine Competition. He was instrumental in arranging grape purchases for the group and known for opening his home to hold the best potlucks and wine tastings (along with wife Robin). He was also a mentor to many novice winemakers. Rich served on the Board of Directors for the Wine Society from 2007 to 2009.

When a close friend from the Wine Society passes, many of us would like to have the opportunity to express our feelings and read those from other members. Please send your testimonials, and any pictures to webmaster@ocws.org. The comments will be shared on the In Memoriam page found under the Members tab of the website.

wine Competitions. Finally, the newsletter reported on the award of 14 scholarships to California State University at Fresno and the University of California at Davis over the previous five years. Another issue of the Free Run was published in May 1987 and reported on the history of the Home Winemaking Group and highlighted the background and activities of the current Board of Directors. With the Presidency of John Goodnight, the OCWS started publishing monthly the OCWS Newsletter with Sharon Spaulding as the Editor. The Newsletter contained a schedule of events, a President's Column, articles on the activities of the Wine Society, and sign-up forms for upcoming events. Starting with the October 1988 issue, the Newsletter became a multiple-page professionally-prepared monthly publication edited by John Goodnight who was also serving as the OCWS President. A contest was held to name the newsletter and the winner, Diane Block, was recognized in January 1989 for her prize-winning name, The Wine Press. This name remains and John Goodnight served 24 years as the Editor from October 1988 until Michelle Philo was appointed as the Editor in October 2012.

~ The Wine Society Continues to Grow and Expand ~

Two grand tastings were continued by the Society; the Spring Wine Extraordinaire and the Summer Wine Extravaganza, both held at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim. The Extraordinaire was still limited to small wineries producing less than 10,000 cases annually. The limit was subsequently raised to 20,000 cases in 1990. Over 50 wineries were invited to pour their wines and attendance was limited to 500 persons. Additionally, food purveyors were invited to complement the wines. The Summer Wine Extravaganza was held in 1986 and 1987 during the Commercial Wine Competition at the Disneyland Hotel. Starting in 1987, the event was moved to July and was renamed the Wine Classic. Over 100 wineries participated in these tastings.

The annual Orange County Fair expanded from 10 to 11, and then 12 days. The Wine Society sponsored wine tastings at the Wine Garden and wine exhibits and a wine booth in the Flower and Garden Building. That building was subsequently replaced and the space was occupied by the Fine Arts Building. The Wine Garden and other booths were eventually abandoned and a new serving area and cellar area was designed in 1990 by a committee chaired by David Hirstein and was to be called the "Wine Pavilion."

The three-day Commercial Wine Competitions were reduced to two days in 1990 and entries stabilized at 2,400 entries with about 50 varietals and styles. The host hotel for 1986 through 1989 was the Disneyland Hotel, then the Competition moved to the Anaheim Marriott in 1990. During this period, coolers and non-alcoholic wines were first judged. While these types of wines faded in the late 1980s, Meritage wines were added. In 1988, the "Chairman Awards" notation was added to the Award Book to recognize those wines receiving three gold medal and one silver medal recommendations from the judges. The number of judges averaged 80.
