Purpose

This booklet lists the winners of the 42nd Annual OC Fair & Event Center Commercial Wine Competition. The judging took place under rigidly controlled conditions on June 2nd & 3rd, 2018, at the Hilton Hotel, Costa Mesa, California. 2,708 different wines were judged and 2,426 were awarded medals.

Scope

The competition includes only wines from California grown grapes including still wines, fortified wines, infused wines, and sparkling wines. This year 86 judges tasted 123 varieties and styles in 514 categories classified by price and residual sugar level. The wine samples for judging are submitted by wineries.

Wines arrive at the OC Fair & Event Center grounds where they are transferred to an air-conditioned building for unpacking and cataloging. There are no entry fees; however, wineries submit 6 bottles of each wine into the competition. These wines are divided into A, B, C, D, E and F bottles. All entries are verified, comparing the entry form to computer listing to the actual bottle placed in a specific box. The A bottles are bagged and labeled by code, varietal, bottle, price code and sugar level. During the competition, the A and B bottles are moved to the competition site. Just prior to judging all A bottles are verified to ensure they are in the proper serving order. B bottles are used only if a defective A bottle is found by the judges.

The judging is performed by professionals; each judge is either a winemaker or winery principal. All judging is performed double blind; neither the stewards nor the judging panels have knowledge of the identity of the individual wines being evaluated. Scoring is done using a 100-point rating system. Each wine is evaluated on such attributes as clarity, depth of color, viscosity, general appeal, fruit aroma, bouquet, sweetness, tannin, acidity, body, length, balance, and overall quality. Each wine is placed in a price grouping identified as low, medium, high and premium. Wines are also grouped in sub-categories by residual sugar level 1 to 6; level 1 being very dry, 2 dry, 3 semi-dry, 4 sweet, 5 very sweet, and 6 extremely sweet. Each grouping is judged individually based on entries in that grouping alone. In each grouping, the older wines are served first. Each class is judged by a panel of judges. The judges arrive at their medal recommendations individually, then discuss with other panel members. This system of judging, and the reporting of results by category, is to assist the consumer in purchasing wines considered by the judges to be the best of their class, within their price range.

The remaining bottles from the competition are featured for tastings at the OC Fair & Event Center Courtyard and other events. The resulting income is used to help defray the cost of conducting the Competition.

World's Largest

The OC Fair & Event Center Commercial Wine Competition is the largest and most comprehensive judging of California Wines in the world.

The OC Fair Competition is now renowned worldwide and is considered by many to be one of the country's premier judgments. The first OC Fair & Event Center Competition was held in 1977.

The OC Fair & Event Center is the only major competition where all the following apply:

- An attempt is made to judge California wines currently available to the Orange County marketplace.
- Only wine makers and winery principals act as judges.

- Wines are judged by price category.
- Wines are judged by residual sugar content.
- All varieties grown in California are considered for judging.
- No entry fees are charged.

The OC Fair & Event Center and the Orange County Wine Society, co-sponsors of this premier competition. hope the results printed in this booklet add to your knowledge and enjoyment of wine.

The Reasons for Competition Judging

Many market factors combine to make it increasingly difficult for the average wine consumer to knowledgeably select wines of the style and quality that meet his or her expectations. Some of these include: the number of California wineries change dramatically from year-to-year; new ones appear, old ones disappear, and winemakers, ownership and management changes are made.

Weather affects the quality and characteristics of the grape crop each year, often differently by region, winemakers must employ different methods to achieve wines, from these varying grapes, that meet their general overall objectives. Additionally, winemaking techniques, production methods and marketing strategies are constantly changing.

It would be a mistake to assume that because a certain winery produces an award-winning wine in a varietal, all wines produced by that winery would be equally good. Nor does it mean that next year the winery will automatically produce an award winner of the same variety. The reputation of a winery is a factor for selecting; but not always a good measure of the quality of wines from year to year.

OC Fair Wine Steering Committee

This group serves at the pleasure of the OC Fair & Event Center Board of Directors to oversee the Commercial Wine Competition. The committee selects the wine varieties to be judged and makes the final selection of award winners based on the judges' scores and medal recommendations. The committee is composed of persons from various professions and considered by their peers to be wine knowledgeable.

Orange County Wine Society

The Orange County Wine Society is the co-sponsor of the Competition, and is responsible for obtaining and classifying the wines, as well as for staging and conducting the actual Competition. Started in 1976, as a non-profit corporation, the Society's purpose is to promote the knowledge of winemaking, viticulture and Wine appreciation, In addition to co-sponsoring the Commercial Wine Competition of the OC Fair & Event Center, the Society also conducts the Fair's Homewine Competition and staffs the wine booth in The Wine Courtyard at the fair. Throughout the year it is active in programs and projects that contribute to the education and knowledge of wine, including the granting of scholarships to deserving students in enology, culinary arts, and viticulture.

Membership is open to adults who are interested in learning more about wine, winemaking and viticulture. The Society has one or two meetings per month and welcomes inquiries from interested potential members at any time.

For more information, visit us at ocws.org.

The Society is an educational, 501 (c)(3), tax exempt organization. Our efforts are aimed at continuing our support, in the form of scholarships, to deserving students of enology and food sciences at many of California's institutes of higher education.

Price Categories

The purpose of judging wines by price category is so that wines of substantially different cost are not judged together - that would neither be fair to the wine nor to the consumer. Therefore, wines are grouped together in price ranges and judged within that group, ensuring that $5.00 Wines are not being compared to $75.00 wines, etc. The actual price ranges can vary from year-to-year and are determined by the total number of entries in a class and the range of suggested retail prices for those wines. Wines will be grouped in one of the following: Low, Medium, High and Premium.

Residual Sugar Levels

The wines are also separated into six different levels of Residual Sugar and judged within those groups. Residual sugar is the amount of natural grape sugar left in the wine after fermentation. By separating the wines into different classes based on their level of sweetness, the consumer is further aided by knowing whether to expect a dry or sweet wine. The following chart indicates the various levels and shows the relative difference between them.

Still (Non-Sparking) Wines

Taste	Level	% Sugar
Very Dry	1	0.00 - 0.30
Dry	2	0.31 - 0.70
Semi-Dry	3	0.71 - 1.50
Sweet	4	1.51 - 3.00
Very Sweet	5	3.01 - 8.00
Extremely Sweet	6	8.01 & Up

Sparkling Wines

Taste	Level	% Sugar
Very Dry	1	0.00 - 0.50
Dry	2	0.51 - 1.40
Semi-Dry	3	1.41 - 2.40
Sweet	4	2.41 & Up

Best of Class

A "Best of Class" was awarded based on the overall numerical score and medal recommendations of the judges in price levels premium, high, medium and low for the following categories: Red Varietals, White Varietals, Rosé, Sparkling Wines and Dessert Wines.

Special Recognition - Double Gold Awards

This special designation indicates that the wine received a Gold Medal recommendation from four judges on a panel. Since this is not a "consensus judging", i.e. the judges do not confer among themselves to determine what award they will make, but arrive at their recommendation individually, a rare occurrence indeed. This year, out of a total of 2,708 entries, only 56 wines received this prestigious honor. They are:

Commercial Label Competition

The purpose of the label competition is to give recognition to the outstanding labels designed for wines that are entered each year in the OC Fair & Event Center Commercial Wine Competition. Labels from all entries to the competition are automatically entered into the label competition. Members of the Orange County Wine Society with backgrounds in art perform preliminary selection of labels for the competition. Candidate labels are chosen based on eye appeal, easy recognition and promotional value. Each of the selected labels is placed in one of 11 categories based on its design, regardless of the type of wine.

Best of Show Label

A First, Second, and Third place award is chosen in each category by a vote of the OC Fair & Event Center Commercial Wine Competition judges and members of the Orange County Wine Society participating in the competition. A Best of Show is then determined by vote of the Label Competition Committee members. The Award-winning labels are displayed by the Orange County Wine Society in The Courtyard during the OC Fair.

Following is the Best of Show label and the 11 categories and their winning label names.

How to Sample Wine

SIGHT

Look at the wine. Is it clear, brilliant, cloudy, or dull? Notice the depth of color.

SMELL

Smell the wine and notice the aroma. Swirl the glass and smell the wine again. Is it neutral, clean, attractive, outstanding, or is it acetic, oxidized, yeasty, or corky? Is there a fruit aroma? Can you recognize the fruit of the specific varietal you are sampling? Is the aroma strong, slight or none? Is there a bouquet (none, pleasant, complex, powerful)?

TASTE

Now you are ready to taste. Remember 80% of tasting is done with your nose. You must have air in the wine. Swish the wine around in your mouth letting it touch your entire oral cavity. The more air the better you can taste.

SWEETNESS

is on the tip of your tongue from dry to extremely sweet.

TANNIN

(red wines) is astringent, hard, dry, or soft. You can feel the astringency along the sides of your tongue inside your cheeks.

ACIDITY

is flat, refreshing, or tart and can be felt on the sides of your tongue. High acid can be felt on your gums and teeth. The lack of acid is flabby.

BODY

is very light and thin, light, medium full-bodied, or heavy. This includes viscosity.

BITTERNESS

is found on the top rear of your tongue.

ALCOHOL

is the burning in your mouth and throat? Too high of alcohol concentration presents a "hot" taste.

LENGTH

can be short, acceptable, extended or lingering.

BALANCE

denotes complete harmony in the principal constituents of the wine. It can be unbalanced, good, very well balanced or excellent.

Now determine the overall quality based on your own impression. You are the best judge of whether you enjoy a wine.

Wine Characteristics

The flavor of a wine is influenced by the type of grapes used, the soil, weather, growing conditions, and the style of winemaking. While it is risky to generalize, the following definitions of grape varieties and other wine terms should help the consumer to have a better understanding and clearer expectation of what is in the bottle.

ABOURIOU

A red French wine grape medium body, low acidity and high tannin. Similar aromatics and flavors of Malbec.

AGLIANICO

A southern Italian wine of Greek origin. It has a deep ruby color, full aroma and intense flavor.

ALBARIÑO

A northwestern Spain white grape varietal with an aroma of apricot and peach. The wine produced is light, clean, crisp, lively with a citrusy flavor that resembles a Riesling.

ALEATICO

A red Italian variety with a strong Muscat aroma.

ALICANTE BOUSCHET

Also often known simply as Alicante, a red-fleshed grape used chiefly for blending.

ALVARELHÃO

A red grape from Portugal with acid levels resulting in delicious flavors. Wines are light in every respect but significantly well balanced.

ARNEIS

A dry white wine specialty of Piedmont in Northwest Italy. Light almond flavors can be present in young wines but can fade fast.

BARBERA

Red grape of Italian origin which produces a light, fruity wine in hot climates but a rich, complex wine in the cooler coastal counties. When young, this varietal is good with pasta and seafood.

BLACK CORINTH

A white grape used in the raisin industry which produces a sweet dessert wine the color of the California poppy.

BLANC DE BLANCS

A sparkling white wine made from white grapes, normally Chardonnay grapes.

BLANC DE NOIRS

A sparkling white wine made from dark grapes by fermenting must without the presence of skins.

BLANC DE PINOT NOIR

A white or blush wine made from the Pinot Noir grape. Generally fermented cold to enhance the fruity character of the grape, may be finished dry or with a slight residual sugar.

BLAUFRÄNKISCH

A red wine grape widely planted in Austria. The wines it produces are lighter styled reds, usually with plenty of acidity, peppery and a fruity taste of cherries.

CABERNET BLANC

A white or blush wine made from the cabernet sauvignon grape. Light, fruity and usually on the sweet side, intended to be consumed while young.

CABERNET FRANC

One of several cabernet grape varieties from France. It is one of the primary Meritage grape varieties often used in blends but can also be found bottled on its own.

CABERNET PFEFFER

A red grape varietal developed in California. The wine is occasionally made into a spicy somewhat peppery red wine.

CABERNET SAUVIGNON

Generally recognized as the premier red wine grape in the world, this grape from Bordeaux France is capable of producing dry, full-bodied wines of great complexity. While young this varietal tends to have a dominant tannic character. Good with beef, lamb, duck, fruit and cheese.

CARIGNANE

A red Rhone varietal originally from the Mediterranean region of Europe, this grape is predominantly used for blending. It is full of tannin and is heavy bodied. Good with hamburger, stews, and hearty meals.

CHARBONO

A red grape mainly found in California, very dark in color often lean and lackluster in flavor. Tends to be tannic and acidic, ages well.

CHARDONNAY

Considered to be the premier white wine grape from the Burgundy region of France. The grape has no overtly strong varietal characteristics. The resultant wines, therefore, tend to be greatly influenced by the cellar treatment and wine making style. Usually it is made in a dry style with varying degrees of oak influence. Many of the available wines have a slight amount of residual sugar to enhance their fruitiness and to help them to appeal to a broad range of consumers. Good with rich cream sauces, fruit, and fish.

CHENIN BLANC

The classic grape from the Loire region of France. Widely planted in California, it is often blended into other wines. Styles range dramatically but most tend to be slightly sweet enhancing their fruity character. Wines labeled dry may be more in the chardonnay style with strong oak barrel influences. Good with Chinese or Polynesian food.

CINSAULT

A red wine that creates wines that are light in body and neutral in flavor. Because of their high acidity and low tannins, cinsault wines are usually balanced with a blend of grenache, mourvèdre, syrah and others.

CORTESE

Italian white wine, rarely complex, high acid with a delicate fruity aroma and flavor.

CORVINA

An Italian red wine grape variety that has a flavor profile of sour cherry.

COUNOISE

A red dark-skinned wine grape primarily from the Rhône Valley region of France. Has a peppery note, good acidity, soft tannins, spicy character with flavors of anise, strawberries, and blueberries.

DOLCETTO

Almost exclusive to northwest Italy. This produces soft round, fruity wines fragrant with licorice and almonds that should be drunk within about three years.

DORNFELDER

A red German hybrid grape developed in 1956 which produces a dark color wine with full body, excellent fruitiness, and tannic structure. The wines can have intense blackberry, sour cherry aromas with a hint of cloves and cinnamon.

FIANO

A white grape native to the South of Italy. It has a nutty, herbal, aromatic, with smoky spicy notes and hazelnut. Moderate to high acidity wines are produced.

FOLLE BLANCHE

Once grown in profusion along the Atlantic seaboard of western France, providing very acidic but otherwise neutral base white wine for distillation.

FRANKEN RIESLING

Occasional name for Sylvaner once an important white German grape.

FRENCH COLOMBARD

Used primarily to make brandy in France. In California it is primarily blended into white table wines. On its own, produces a flowery, perfumy wine, usually finished with a medium level of sweetness. Moderately priced and intended to be consumed young.

FUME BLANC

Not a grape but a wine style. The term was originated in California by Robert Mondavi in the 1960's to distinguish his dry, oak influenced Sauvignon Blanc from others on the market which tended to be sweeter. Fume implies a somewhat smoky style. Good with seafood, poultry, and fresh fruit.

GAMAY BEAUJOLAIS

After many years of confusion in California vineyards, it was determined that this grape is actually a lesser clone of the Pinot Noir grape. The style of winemaking can vary as with the Gamay and will greatly influence the taste, but most wines labeled Gamay Beaujolais tend to be fresh, fruity and should be consumed young. Some enjoy this wine slightly chilled.

GEWÜRZTRAMINER

A clone of the Traminer grape from Germany, it is a white varietal but actually has a pink skin when ripe. In German, "gewurz" means spicy. The wines are aromatic, spicy, reminiscent of carnations. Produced in a dry style (as in its native Alsace), light to medium sweet, and late-harvest for dessert wines. It is a difficult grape to grow and difficult for consumers to pronounce but one not to be overlooked. Good with salmon, pork, poultry, sausages, and spicy foods.

GRACIANO

A red grape native to Spain also called Xeres in California. Deep red color, strong aroma and ages well. The wines are tannic, rough and tart at first then become soft with age.

GREEN HUNGARIAN

A white wine grape grown in small amounts in California. The wine is pleasant, rather nondescript and neutral.

GRENACHE

A red grape of Spanish origin where it makes big bold red wine. In France, is used primarily as a blending wine for Chateauneuf-du-Pape and Cote du Rhône. In the US it is used for Rhône style blends and as a stand alone varietal. It has many attributes of Pinot Noir such as mouth feel and color.

GRENACHE BLANC

A white grape from France with firm acidity, green apple, and citrus flavors, and white flower aromatics.

GRIGNOLINO

A very localized red grape variety of northwest Italy. Sold as a pale red varietal wine with an alpine scent and tang.

GRIS MEUNIER

A French red grape, fruity, high acidity. Other names include Meunier, Plant Meunier, Pinot Meunier, Mullerrebe, and Schwarz-riesling

GRÜNER VELTLINER

A white wine grape also known as (green) veltliner. Used to create famous fresh and fruity young wines. Good with Asian food.

IBERIAN STYLE BLENDS

A blend of traditional Spanish and Portuguese grape varieties. Red grapes can include Tempranillo, Grenache, Graciano, and Mourvèdre. White grapes can include Viura, Muscat, Verdejo, Albarino and Palomino.

ITALIAN STYLE BLENDS

A blend of traditional Italian varietals (Barbera, Nebbiolo, or Sangiovese) possibly with other Bordeaux varietals such as Cabernet Sauvignon. Good with pasta and red sauces.

KERNER

A German white hybrid grape that produces Riesling-like wines with good acidity, floral characteristics and can be aged.

LAMBRUSCO SALAMINO

Is a red wine whose small bunches are thought to resemble a small salami.

LAGREIN

A red varietal from the Italian Tyro, which produces wines that are strong and full bodied with plum and wild cherry flavors, and the variety is particularly well known for the deep, dense color it imparts on wines.

MALBEC

A red grape varietal once important in Bordeaux and the Loire in various blends. Widely planted in Argentina and Chile.

MALVASIA BIANCA

An Italian white varietal that produces a golden perfumy flavorful wine with hints of apricots, musk and almonds.

MARSANNE

A white grape variety probably originating in the Northern Rhône area - full-bodied, moderately intense wine with spice, pear and citrus notes and a perfumy fragrance.

MÉRITAGE

A word coined by a promotional association to define or describe wines made entirely from a blend of traditional Bordeaux grape varieties but the wines do not necessarily include all of the permitted varietals. Meritage red varietals include Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Merlot, Petit Verdot, Gros Verdot, Malbec, St Macaire and Carménère. The White Meritage varietals are Sauvignon Blanc, Semillon, Muscadelle du Bordelais (a.k.a. Sauvignon Vert.) No single varietal may make up more than 90% of the blend.

MERLOT

A red grape from Bordeaux, similar in taste to Cabernet Sauvignon. Originally used in California to blend with Cabernet Sauvignon to soften the wine and add to its complexity. Good with beef and other red meats.

MISSION

A red grape varietal from Spain which has high sugar levels and very little acidity. Used in making sacramental, table and fortified wines.

MONTEPULCIANO

A red Italian grape, medium body wines, light tannin with unusual smoky, red fruity, and vegetal flavor.

MOURVÈDRE

A red grape from the Rhône region of France which grows well in warm climates and produces a deep colored wine described as having a spicy, bitter character to the aroma and heavy tannins.

MUSCAT

There are a number of different Muscat varietals produced, the most popular being Muscat Blanc (also known as Muscat Canelli and Muscat Frontignan) The wines typically have a distinct, spicy aroma and flavor and are usually finished slightly sweet to medium sweet as the wine tends to be bitter if finished dry. Some sweet, fortified dessert wines are also made from the various Muscat varietals.

MUSCAT BLANC

Is a white wine grape that is a member of the Muscat family. It can be dry, semi-sweet, or sweet. Flavors of melons, orange pekoe, lemon zest and apricot.

NEBBIOLO

A red grape of Italian origin, which in Italy is used to produce a range of wines, including the famed Barolo. There is a relatively small but growing amount of this wine produced in California.

NEGRETTE

A distinctive red specialty of southwest France. Its wine is probably best drunk young.

PALOMINO FINO

A white grape varietal used to make Sherry and fortified wines. The juice is low in acids and sugars.

PETIT VERDOT

One of the Bordeaux's classic red grape varietals.

PETITE SIRAH

Another red grape with a very confusing history in California. It is sometimes referred to as Duriff but experts today basically agree that it is not the same grape as the Syrah grape of the Rhône district of southern France. There are several different clones planted in California, but all tend to produce a very dark inky black wine with heavy tannins but not a greatly complex character. Frequently blended into generic wines to add color and structure. Good with big and well-seasoned meals.

PINOT BLANC

A white grape variant of the Pinot Noir. Sometimes referred to as a "poor man's chardonnay". Many wineries blend this into their sparkling wine cuvees.

PINOT GRIGIO OR PINOT GRIS

Italian and French names respectively for the same white grape varietal from Italy, soft gently perfumed, has more color than most whites.

PINOT MEUNIER

One of France's most planted red grape varietals. A popular choice for Champagne's growers which contributes useful fruitiness.

PINOT NOIR

The famous red grape of Burgundy. For years it proved to be difficult and elusive for California winemakers but has begun to gain worldwide recognition and acclaim. Grows best in the cooler coastal regions. Good with lamb, beef fowl, veal and egg dishes, fruits, nuts and cheese.

PINOTAGE

A red grape that is a cross between Pinot Noir and Cinsault, grown commercially in South Africa, where it is fermented at higher temperatures and matured in new oak for finesse and elegant berry flavors.

PORT

Generic name for a fortified, sweet wine usually red, made in the style of the port produced in the Douro region of Portugal. There is a wide range of quality and vinifying techniques used in California but the better wines tend to combine strong fruit flavor with a depth and richness providing long aging potential. There are four basic categories: vintage, ruby, tawny and white. See separate listing for each.

PROPRIETARY WINES

In California, wines other than varietals are marketed under a broad spectrum of names that, in general, do little to reflect the style or quality of the wine. Some semi-generic names are derived from European place names such as Chablis, Burgundy or Chianti. The borrowed place names reflect the origins of the California wine pioneers but seldom bear any resemblance to the wines for which they're named. The laws make no requirement as to grape varieties used in any of them. A few have proprietary names and reflect the winemakers attempt to produce an excellent wine through blending that could not be produced with 75% or more of just one grape, as is the case with the Meritage class of wines.

PINOT MEUNIER

One of France's most planted red grape varietals. A popular choice for Champagne's growers which contributes useful fruitiness.

REFOSCO

Is a red wine grape from Italy. Flavors include strong currant, wild berry, and plum.

RHÔNE STYLE BLENDS

A blend of wine from two or more grapes that are traditionally grown in the Rhône Valley of Southern France. In California, the most common reds include Syrah, Grenache, Mourvèdre, Carignane, Cinsault and Counoise. White varieties include Viognier, Marsanne and Roussanne.

ROSÉ WINES

Pink wine made from red grapes whose skins were removed after fermentation began with a wide range of sweetness from bone dry to sweet. The major ways to produce rosé wine are skin contact, saignée, and blending.

ROUSSANNE

A white Rhône varietal, chief attribute is its haunting aroma something akin to a particularly refreshing herb tea.

RUBY CABERNET

A cross between Carignane and Cabernet Sauvignon developed at the University of California, Davis Campus. Most Ruby Cabernet grapes are grown in California's hot Central Valley and used primarily in jug wines. The wines tend to be flat and lack structure.

RUBY PORT

Made from lower-quality batches of wine which are aged in wood for about 2 years. The wine is bottled while it still exhibits youth, fruitiness, and a bright red color.

SAGRANTINO

A red Italian grape variety. The bouquet is one of dark, brooding red fruits with hints of plum, cinnamon, and earth.

SANGIOVESE

A red grape of Italian origin, which in Italy is one of the traditional grapes used in Chianti. It is often bottled on its own but can be found in blends with other grapes such as Cabernet Sauvignon.

SAUVIGNON BLANC

A white grape that is prevalent in the Graves district of France. It has a very distinct, herbaceous, grassy aroma and flavor. Styles vary from no oak exposure to more than a year in barrel, and from dry to distinctly sweet. The wines are sometimes labeled Fume Blanc and these are usually dry, although there is no consistency or regulation to this term. Excellent dessert wines are also made from this varietal, especially when affected with Botrytis cinerea. Good with seafood, poultry, and fresh fruit.

SAUVIGNON GRIS

A pink colored wine grape a clonal mutation of Sauvignon Blanc originated around Bordeaux fruit flavors mango and melon with citrus notes dry with some herbaceous notes.

SAUVIGNON VERT

This is the Sauvignon most commonly planted in Chile and can produce white wines that taste like Sauvignon Blanc, but without much extract or ageing potential.

SÉMILLON

Another white grape from Graves. Sometimes referred to as Chevrier, it is often described as having a fig like aroma and taste. Sémillon is capable of a wide range of styles, including late harvest style dessert wines. It has traditionally been blended with Sauvignon Blanc and is one of the white Meritage grape varieties. Good with seafood and poultry.

SHERRY

Generic name for fortified wines styled after Spanish sherry, though only a few of the best follow the traditional, time-consuming solera system of aging. Most California sherries are fortified then heated to produce the characteristic oxidized flavors. Styles range from dry to extremely sweet (cream).

SOUZÃO

Is a Portuguese wine grape used in the production of port. It's a lively wine with bright acidity and fresh berry flavors.

SPARKLING ROSÉ

A California term for sparkling wine made from red grapes.

SPARKLING WINE

A wine with dissolved carbon dioxide which produces an effervescence when opened and poured into the glass. This wine is made three different ways: methode champenoise, the traditional way of creating a secondary fermentation within the bottle in which the wine is sold. This involves laborious riddling and disgorging to remove the sediment then recorking the bottle (wines may be labeled "methode champenoise" or "fermented in this bottle"); in the transfer process, bottles are emptied into pressurized tanks and filtered after fermentation they are then rebottled (such wines are usually labeled "bottle fermented" or "fermented in the bottle"). In the bulk, or charmat process, the wine is fermented in tanks and then artificially carbonated. The latter process is typically used for low-priced sparkling wines. Styles range dramatically from bone dry to sweet, dessert style wines.

SYLVANER

Is a white grape primarily from Alsace and Germany. It can be dry, semi-sweet or sweet. Flavors of pear hints of citrus and melon sometimes basil or fresh herb with a mineral finish.

SYMPHONY

A California crossing of Grenache Gris and Muscat of Alexandria developed at U.C. Davis. It produces an off-dry white table wine and a sparkling wine.

SYRAH

A red grape from the Rhône region of France which is capable of producing rich, complex, long-lived wines. Sometimes referred to as Shiraz, it should not be confused with Petite Sirah which is a different grape entirely. Over the last few years it has gained a steadily increasing interest within the California wine industry. Good with beef, lamb and spicy foods.

SYRAH NOIR

A red wine variety from the Northern Rhône region of France. It has firm tannins and inky, dark purple color almost black with flavor notes of leather, tobacco, cherry, plum, spice cake and cinnamon.

TANNAT

A red grape originated from Basque region of France, high tannins, robust wine aromas of smoke, tobacco, ripe berries and plum. Flavors of plum, raspberry and spice.

TAWNY PORT

Made from a blend of grapes from several different years. They can be aged in wood for as long as 40 years. The best tawny ports stipulate the time that they've matured, e.g., 10, 20, 30, 40 years.

TEMPRANILLO

A grape that puts the spine into many good Spanish red wines. Its grapes are thick skinned and capable of making deep colored, long lasting wines that are not notably high in alcohol.

TEROLDEGO

A red wine grape from Northern Italy, fruity, low tannins. Designed to be drunk young.

TOCAI FRIULANO

A most popular and widely planted white Friuli grape in Northeast Italy, light in color and body and can be anything from floral and crisp to almond in flavor, designed to be drunk young.

TOURIGA NACIONAL

A red grape from Portugal considered the finest variety for making red port. Touriga is full, rich, and deep color with powerful fruity aromas, and well balanced.

TORRONTÉS

A white grape that originated in Spain but has become the white grape of Argentina. It has aromas similar to Viognier, with hints of peach pit, flowers, and orange citrus fruit. Best enjoyed young.

TREBBIANO

A light white crisp wine from Central Italy.

TROUSSEAU

A dark grape from eastern France, commonly used for sweet, dessert wines.

TROUSSEAU GRIS

A white variety sometimes called Gray Riesling in California.

VALDIGUIÉ

A red wine grape from Southern France, light to medium bodied with pleasantly fruity flavors and fairly high acidity. Should be drunk young.

VARIETAL WINES

A wine named after the predominant grape variety in its composition, which by law must be at least 75%.

VERDEJO

A crisp white wine from Rueda, Spain full bodied, aromatic, often soft and herbaceous high in glycerol and acid nutty flavors with age.

VERDELHO

A white wine grape, medium-sweet from the island of Madeira.

VERMENTINO

A white grape originating in Spain or Madeira a pale straw color low alcohol with crisp acids, citrus-leaf aromatics and pronounced minerality. In the mouth flavors of green apple and lime.

VERMOUTH

White wine that has been fortified and flavored with various herbs and spices, used chiefly in mixed drinks.

VINTAGE PORT

Made from grapes of a single vintage, bottled within 2 years and aged in the bottle. Most expensive from the best sites and best vintage, not made every year. Can age 50 years or more.

VIIGNIER

A white grape from the Rhône region of France which can produce rich, complex wines with melon-like flavors.

VRANAC

A red grape from Macedonia, Serbia and Montenegro taste is dry subtle, round and full. The nose has hints of cinnamon, chocolate, liquorice and flowers

WHITE CABERNET SAUVIGNON

A white grape (Shalistin) with aromas of lifted toast and slight honeyed character, flavors of preserved lemons and honey.

WHITE MERLOT

A wine made from red grapes, kept pale in color by quickly removing the skins from the juice after the grapes are pressed, which stops the transfer of color from the grape skin's dark pigment. The wine is then processed as for white wine.

WHITE PORT

Made using only white grapes, golden in color the same way red ports are produced. Can be made sweet or dry.

WHITE RIESLING

Famous German grape - sometimes referred to as Johannisberg Riesling. Produced in styles ranging from dry, to off-dry or semi-sweet, to sweet and extremely sweet. Dessert wines with Botrytis cinerea influence are often highly prized and priced accordingly. Good with cheeses and desserts.

WHITE VALDIGUIÉ

A wine made from red grapes, kept pale in color by quickly removing the skins from the juice after the grapes are pressed. The wine is then processed as for white wine.

WHITE ZINFANDEL

A wine made from red grapes, kept pale in color by quickly removing the skins from the juice after the grapes are pressed, which stops the transfer of color from the grape skin's dark pigment. The wine is then processed as for white wine.

ZINFANDEL

A red grape widely planted in California. It can produce a wide range of wines varying in style from deep, dark, spicy, full-bodied, intensely flavored wines with long aging potential to late harvest, port-like dessert wines (high in alcohol, occasionally sweet) to the popular blush style of white zinfandel, made in the style of a white wine with minimum skin contact and cold fermentation to enhance the fruitiness. Good with all foods.

ZWEIGELT

An Austrian red grape varietal with exotic spices and floral characteristics lively and refreshing with aromas of cinnamon and violets

Wine Terms / Descriptions

ACIDITY

A wine tasting term used to indicate agreeable sharpness or tartness produced by natural fruit acids.

ALCOHOLIC

A term used to describe a wine's hot, burning taste accompanied by a sharp, biting sensation in the mouth.

APPELLATION OF ORIGIN

Mandatory for varietal and semi generic wines. Wines designated "California" must be 100% grown and finished within the state. If the appellation is a county, the percent required is 75. In cases of established viticultural areas, such as "Santa Maria Valley", the figure is 85%. Where the label lists more than one county, all the grapes must come from the places listed and the percentage from each must be given.

AROMA

Fruity smell of the grape varietal.

ASTRINGENCY

The mouth puckering sensation produced by tannin in wine.

ATTRACTIVE

A tasting of fresh fruit in a light wine that is easy to drink.

AVA

American Viticultural Areas, A viticultural area is a delimited grape growing region distinguishable to a geographical features, the boundaries of which have been recognized by the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Trade Bureau (TTS).

BALANCE

A term used to describe a wine when all the components acid, alcohol, fruit, tannins, etc. are in perfect harmony.

BIG

A wine tasting term for a rich, full bodied wine that is concentrated, intensely flavored and assertive.

BODY

The consistency or "weight" of wine on the tongue. White wines tend to be lighter in body than Red wines.

BOUQUET

The fragrance of a wine created by fermentation and aging, developing as the wine matures.

BOTRYTIS

Botrytis cinerea, sometimes called the noble rot, is a mold that occurs under certain conditions when the nights are cool and early morning fog keeps the grapes moist. While not pretty to look at, its effect on the grape is to concentrate the sugars and flavor resulting in a smooth wine with a honey like taste and texture. The effect is especially desirable in dessert wines made from Riesling, Sauvignon Blanc and Semillon grapes but can be disastrous to most red grape varieties.

BRIARY

Describes young wines with an earthy or stemmy wild berry character.

BRIX

A system used to measure the sugar content in grapes, must and wine. On labels, Brix may be used to indicate the degree of ripeness or sugar level at harvest and/or the sugar level in the finished wine (residual sugar). For most table wines, the usual range at harvest is 20 to 25 degrees Brix. By multiplying the stated Brix at harvest by .55, the approximate alcohol by volume can be determined if the wine is fermented to dryness.

BRUT

An adjective used to describe sparkling wine, which generally indicates a relatively dry style. However, there are no legal requirements and, therefore, there is no guarantee that the wine is dry.

BUTTERY

A rich fat, and positively delicious character found in white wines, particularly those that have undergone malolactic fermentation.

CARBONIC MACERATION

A winemaking technique used primarily with red grapes, wherein the grapes are not crushed and stemmed but placed into the fermentation tank whole. The resulting wine is intensely fruity, light-bodied, with a slight spritz caused by the trapped carbon dioxide. Wines of this style are intended to be consumed young. Occasionally some carbonic maceration wine is blended with conventionally fermented wine to give the wine additional fruitiness and freshness.

CASSIS

A sensory term used to describe the rich black currant flavor and aroma found in some wines.

CHARACTER

A term applied to a wine with distinctive, obvious features, either pertaining to its style or varietal.

CHARMAT (OR BULK) PROCESS

The method of producing sparkling wines in which the second fermentation is conducted in large, glass-lined tanks.

CHEWY

A wine tasting term for wines that give a mouth-filling impression that make them seem almost thick enough to chew. The wine is rich, dense, intense and full-bodied.

CLARITY

A term that refers to the cloudiness or sediment in a wine.

CLEAN

A clean wine is one without faults in either smell or flavor.

CLONE

A group of vines originating from a single, individual plant whose descendants have usually been propagated by means of cuttings and/or grafts. A clone is selected for its special viticultural and wine merits (productivity, resistance to disease, adaptability to growing conditions and wine quality).

CLOSED

A wine that does not show its full potential most likely a young wine. Aging will usually open this wine.

CLOUDY

A wine that is visually unclear. Cloudiness is considered a defect.

COMPLEX

A wine with multiple layers and nuances of bouquet and flavor.

CORKED OR CORKY

Terms used to describe a wine that's been affected by a faulty cork, resulting in a bad odor and flavor that many compare to moldy, wet cardboard or wet newspapers. A musty quality like a damp basement.

COARSE

A wine tasting term used to describe a mediocre or poor-quality wine that may have body but little else. In sparkling wine coarseness refers to large, rough bubbles.

COLOR

The color of a wine is an indicator of its condition, quality, age and style.

COOKED

A wine with a heavy, sweet, sometimes caramelly smell and flavor.

CRISP

A descriptor for wine that has a fresh, lively acidity that, although noticeable, not overpowering the other components. Crispness is a desirable trait in white wine.

DEEP

A word that signifies intensity in a wine's bouquet, color or flavor.

DELICATE

A term used to describe quality wines that are light, well-balanced and refined.

DRY

Describes wine that is not sweet. In fully dry wine, all the sugar has been converted to alcohol during fermentation.

EARTHY

An aroma or flavor evocative of damp, rich soil.

ELEGANT

A term used for wines that have finesse, lightness and flair. A wine that is well-balanced and excellent quality.

ESTATE BOTTLED

Refers to wine made entirely on the premises of a winery from grapes grown on its own land in the same viticulturally defined area.

EUCALYPTUS

A term used to describe the spicy, aromatic, mint-like aroma of certain red wines.

FINESSE

Wine with distinction and grace and perfect harmony among its components.

FINISH

A wine tasting term referring to the palate sensation or after-taste remaining after the wine is swallowed.

FLAT

For a still wine, describes a dull flavor and character due to a lack of acidity. For a sparkling wine, a lack of effervescence.

FLORAL OR FLOWERY

A wine that has an aroma reminiscent of flowers such as violets, citrus blossoms or roses, this impression can also be sensed on the palate.

FORTIFIED

Method of increasing a wine's alcohol content by the addition of brandy or neutral spirits. Used in the production of Sherry, Port and many Muscat based wines. In the U. S., Sherries are fortified to a minimum 17% alcohol by volume, other fortified wines have an 18% minimum. Table wines normally have alcohol levels between 10% - 14%.

FRESH

A descriptor for a well-balanced wine that is lively, clean and fruity.

FRUITY

A wine that has a characteristic flavor and smell of fresh fruit.

GLYCEROL

A colorless, odorless, syrupy substance that is a by-product of fermentation. Tastes slightly sweet and gives the palate an impression of smoothness in the wine.

GRASSY

Sensory term used to describe the smell of freshly cut grass or hay.

HARD

Descriptors for a wine that is young and excessively tannic and/or acidic. With age this wine should mellow and soften.

HARSH

Descriptors for a wine that is hard in the extreme, usually due to high astringency, which gives it a rough tactile sensation on the palate.

HEARTY

A wine tasting term generally applied to lively, robust red wines that are high in alcohol.

HERBAL

A wine tasting term for wines that smell of fresh herbs such as basil, oregano and rosemary.

HOT

A sensory term used to describe wines with excessive alcohol. Causes a burning, prickly sensation in the mouth and throat,

INFUSED WINES

Any wine with fresh squeezed fruit juice, herbs, chocolate, almonds, etc. added just before bottling.

JAMMY

A wine tasting term for wine that has an intensely ripe, fruity, concentrated flavor and aroma.

LATE HARVEST

A label term without precise definition or legal standing that implies the wines are sweet and may, but not necessarily, have been harvested with Botrytis. The term describes the condition of the fruit and not the calendar date. The general implication on white wines is that the wine is finished sweet to some degree; on red wines, it means they may be high in alcohol and/or sweet. Most late harvest wines are best enjoyed after the main course in place of fortified dessert wines. The residual sugar level is often indicated on the label of these wines.

LEAN

Describes a wine that is somewhat sparse in fruit.

LUSH

A term applied to wines that are rich, soft, velvety, sweet and fruity-exceedingly drinkable.

MALOLACTIC FERMENTATION

Is a biochemical process that converts the malic acid of unripe grapes into two-parts lactic acid and one-part carbonic gas.

MATURE

A term for wine that is perfectly developed, aged and ready to drink.

MELLOW

A descriptor for a mature, well-aged wine that is soft and pleasant.

METHODE CHAMPENOISE

The original French method of producing Champagnes in which the wine undergoes its second fermentation in the bottle. Sparkling wines produced by the champenoise method may bear the label "naturally fermented in this bottle".

MUST

The unfermented juice of grapes produced by crushing or pressing.

NEUTRAL

A term used to describe wine that is perfectly acceptable but is ordinary and lacks distinction.

NON-VINTAGE

A term referring to wine bottles that are not identified by a specific year on the label. Non-vintage wines often are a blend of grapes from different years.

NOUVEAU

A light, fruity, youthful style wine. Some are produced using carbonic maceration, others simply bottled soon after fermentation, usually intended to be consumed when young.

OILY

A wine tasting term that can refer to either texture or flavor. The wine will produce a slightly slippery impression in the mouth.

REFINED

A wine that is high in quality as well as being in perfect character and balance.

RESIDUAL SUGAR

The unfermented grape sugar remaining in the finished wine expressed either as a percentage by volume or a percentage by weight (1.8% or 1.8 gm/100 ml).

RICH

A wine tasting term depicting wines that have a opulently full and balanced complement of intense flavor, alcohol and extract.

RIPE

A wine tasting term that describes a wine made from perfectly ripened grapes, which contribute rich, round, naturally sweet fruity characteristics.

ROBUST

A wine tasting term similar in meaning to big. A wine that is full-bodied, round and full of fruit.

ROUND

A wine tasting term for a well-balanced mellow, full-bodied wine.

SOFT

A descriptor for a wine that is well balanced, fruity, mellow and pleasant, usually low acidity and/or tannins.

TANNIN

The sensation that creates a puckery feeling in the mouth, primarily in young, red wines. It is derived from the skins, seeds and stems of the grapes, as well as the oak barrels. If kept in balance, it acts as a natural preservative that helps the wine develop as it ages, adding dimension and complexity. If excessive, it can long outlive the fruit and other flavors in the wine and so dominate the wine's flavor that it tastes bitter or astringent.

TERROR

Literally means 'soil', but in a viticultural sense. Terroir refers to a vineyard's complete growing environment, which also includes altitude, aspect, climate and any other significant factors that may affect the life of the vine and thereby the quality of the grapes it produces.

VARIETAL

The term applied to wines that contain at least 75% of the grape variety named on the label.

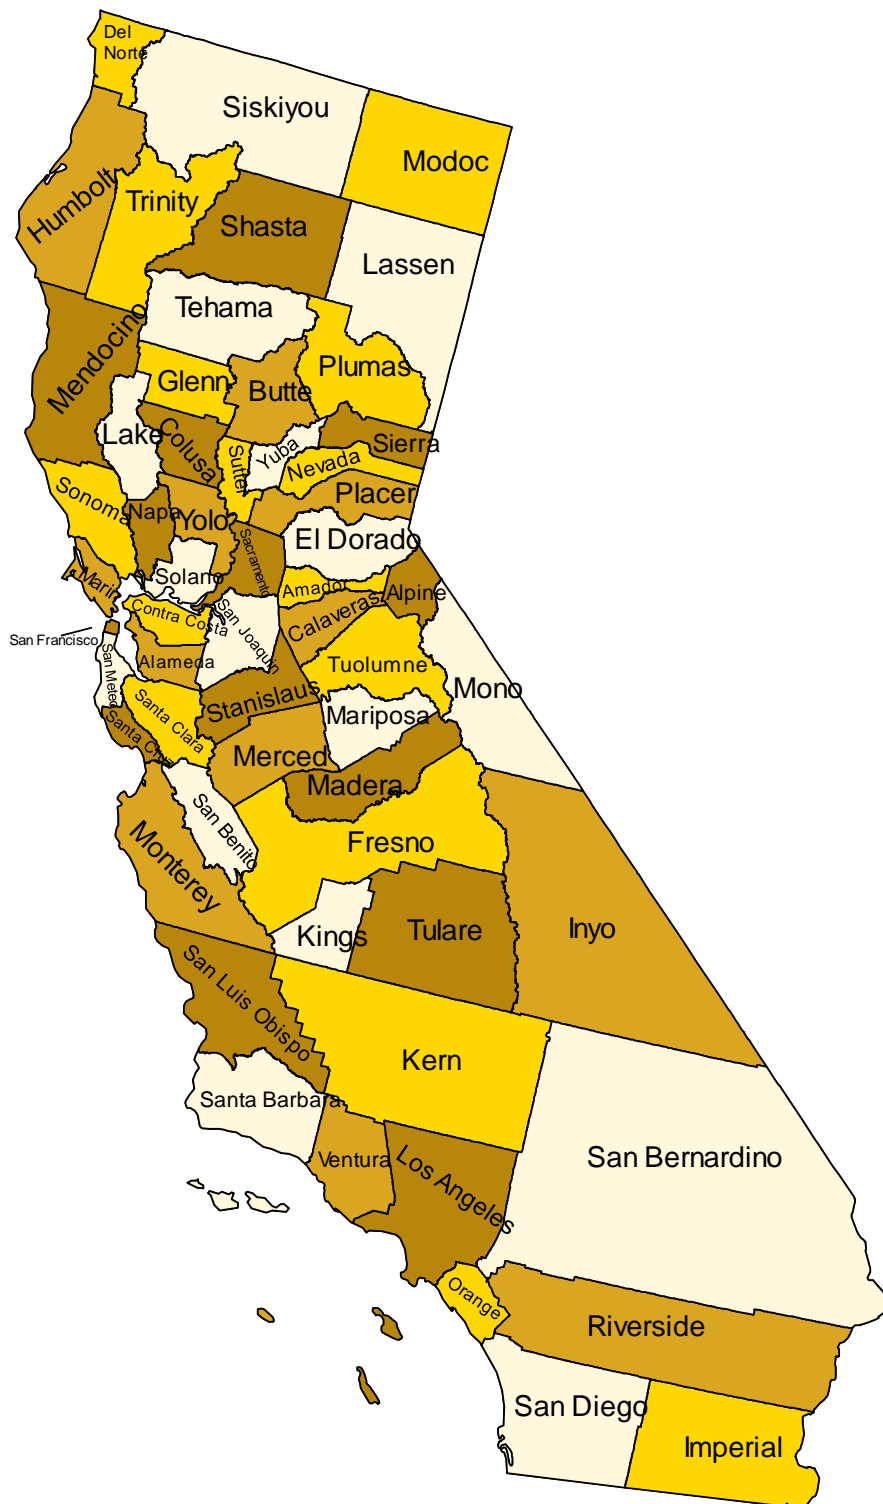

VINTAGE DATE

A vintage date indicates that at least 95% of the wine was made from grapes harvested in the stated calendar year. Provides useful information about a wine's freshness or potential aging requirements but a vintage-dated wine is not necessarily better than a non-vintage wine, even though most high-quality wines carry vintage dates.

VINEYARD DESIGNATED

If the name of a special vineyard appears on the label, it must include a geographic appellation and the wine must contain grapes at least 95% from that property.
